

M PLANES

offers you

Aviation Manager

An owner representation service that is designed for you, aircraft purchasers and owners, who are in any of the following situations:

- you wish to benefit from an industry expert representing your interests
- you wish to keep costs under control and to protect your asset
- you wish to be represented by a professional without having to employ one yourself
- your core business is not aviation
- you dedicate your pilots to the most important function: safety, and not to other management functions
- you desire a professional opinion on certain or all aspects of aircraft ownership (AOC & pilot selection, maintenance events, invoice verification, charter sales, choice of suppliers, upgrade advice, etc.)
- your aircraft management company performs both Continuous Airworthiness (CAMO) and Maintenance (PART 145) functions

In short, the AVIATION MANAGER works as your representative and therefore looks after your interests. This starts at the pre-purchase stage including interior outfitting oversight and accompanies you throughout the ownership of your asset.

Join the aircraft owners who have put their trust in us to manage their interests and have avoided having to employ someone directly.
